

America's Food and Retail Union

Tell Congress we need a worker-friendly Farm Bill TODAY!

Every five years, Congress renews the Farm Bill. This massive bill impacts every part of our farm and food system.

Even though workers like you are key to every single part of the Farm Bill—from farmworkers to meat processing workers to food safety inspectors and grocery workers—the bill doesn't include us.

Tell Congress workers like you belong in the Farm Bill!

How does the Farm Bill impact workers like you?

The Farm Bill impacts our entire food system, but it doesn't currently protect workers or support good jobs. If we learned anything from the pandemic, it's that the resiliency of our food supply chain is directly related to the health of its workers. Big Agriculture and corporations get billions from the Farm Bill—it's time for the Farm Bill to invest in workers like YOU who keep America fed and running.

What's in a worker-friendly Farm Bill?

Support for a resilient food supply chain through fair labor standards

Support workers with funding for the Farm and Food Worker Relief grant program

End hunger through full funding for SNAP

Ensure that online grocery and delivery services support good jobs and fair pay

Protect meat processing workers through line speed requirements

Why now?

Congress is about to begin the renewal process for the Farm Bill. This only happens once every five years, so now is the time for us to make sure workers like you are central to this investment in our food system. Congress won't act unless they hear from YOU!
